Clinical Trials Lead at CHW (2020-present). I work with the Network Director of Research to grow clinical trials capacity at SCHN and to build a research-intensive organisation. I am enhancing the research culture in the Network by working with both established research groups to ensure they have the necessary resources to grow, and the Hospital community more generally, to develop the capacity of early and mid-career researchers. We have been working on the Research Strategy Refresh that is focused on People, Partnerships, Population and Precision Health.
