

Dr. Kittinut Kijvikai

M.D. (Honors), Diploma of Surgical Science (Honors),
Thai Board of Urology, FRCS (T)
Fellow of the American College of Surgeons (FACS)

Professor of Urology

Assistant Dean of Academics

Ramathibodi Hospital, Mahidol University, Bangkok, Thailand

Secretary General of Thai Urological Association (TUA)

Dr. Kijvikai is a professor of urology at Ramathibodi hospital, Mahidol university in Bangkok, Thailand. His current executive position is an assistant dean of academics. He is the current secretary general of Thai Urological Association (TUA). He graduated from Ramathibodi hospital in 1996 with the second-class honors. He also passed the national urology board examination with the highest scores in 2002. He was the fellow in endourology, laparoscopic and robotic surgery at Singapore general hospital, academic medical center in Amsterdam and Vanderbilt university medical center in Nashville, TN, USA during 2004-2007. He published many articles in peer review journal including the Journal of Urology, Urology, Current Opinion in Urology, International Journal of Urology and Experimental Clinical Transplantation. He wrote the textbook of laparoscopic and robotic renal surgery (Thai) and won the Ramathibodi textbook project and Mahidol award in textbook writing. He is also a reviewer in journal Urologic Oncology. His academic work and service mainly involves in laparoscopic and robotic urological oncology (kidney, bladder and prostate) and kidney transplantation.

